

COURT REMANDS NEW PRISONER IN ARMENIAN CASE

Kissak Jelalian Sent to Headquarters While Police Investigate Tavshanjan Murder.

SAYS HE IS INNOCENT.

Detectives Believe Prisoner Pointed Out the Rich Merchant to the Slayer.

Kissak Jelalian, an Armenian revolutionary, who is accused by the police of having personally supervised the assassination of Tavshanjan, the rug merchant in Union Square, was arraigned in Centre Street Police Court today. At the request of the Police Department Magistrate, Steinert, he was remanded to headquarters for forty-eight hours.

The District Attorney's office was not represented at the arraignment of Jelalian and the District Attorney's men were not consulted about his arrest. The prisoner says he has been right here in New York since the assassination of Tavshanjan. He made no attempt to hide because he is guilty of no crime, and can prove that he had nothing whatever to do with Bedros Khachadorian, the murderer.

Jelalian is thought to be the man with whom Khachadorian lived while he was here waiting for an opportunity to serve the blackmailers. The prisoner was arrested by Detective William H. Tobo, of the Central Office. He lives in West Forty-second street, between Ninth and Tenth avenues. That Khachadorian came directly from Lowell, Mass., to Jelalian, and that the latter went with him to Union Square on the day Tavshanjan was slain, is the belief of the detectives. It was Jelalian, they think, who sent the numerous blackmailing letters mailed immediately after the assassination.

Seen Near Rug Shop.
Khachadorian attended a meeting of Hunchakists in Lowell before he left. There it was decided to remove Tavshanjan, and Khachadorian was selected as the tool.

At this meeting $300 was raised for the murderer's expenses, and he left Lowell and went to Chelsea, where he remained half a day and then came to New York.

Five days before the murder of Tavshanjan, a man who resembled Jelalian was seen standing in East Seventeenth street, Union Square, watching the store of Tavshanjan. He was noticed by a man engaged in a rug store in the vicinity who knew that he belonged to the murderous Hunchakist band. He watched him for about fifteen minutes.

Finally Mr. Tavshanjan came out of the Everett House, where he had been for lunch. He was accompanied by a friend. They walked to the door of Tavshanjan's place of business, closely followed by the watcher. At the door they met another friend and stopped and talked for some minutes. The follower stood near by, where he could watch them without being seen by them.

The Armenian who furnished the information to the detectives knew Tavshanjan was under sentence of death from the society and suspected Jelalian of springing on his movements with a view to carrying out the sentence.

Did Very Little Work.
The next day, two days before the murder, Jelalian, or some one who resembled him, was watching near Tavshanjan's store again at the noon hour, but the murderer was at his country place. The police expect to prove that on the days Jelalian was watching Tavshanjan's store, Bedros Khachadorian, the murderer, was near at hand, becoming acquainted with the habits and movements of his victim. Jelalian has been in this country for about six years. He has never been known to work much, but seemed to have no difficulty in living without work. He was generally known by Armenians as a member of the murderous Hunchakist Society.

Jelalian once served as secretary of the society. About three weeks ago he shared off his mustache, the police believe, to disguise himself. Two months before the murder he and several other known members of the society disappeared from New York and a few days later a Boston Armenian, who had been threatened, was followed with the evident intention of murdering him. The guard of private detectives he had employed followed him, but he was recognized as the murderer and was recognized as the murderer in disguise. In the Tomb, Khachadorian is believed to be in daily communication with Martirosian, the priest leader of the Hunchakists. When first told that he had been deceived as to the character of his victim, Khachadorian expressed great regret and declared he would unfold the whole plot and give evidence against the members of the society. Then Martirosian was arrested and confined in the Tomb, and Khachadorian has undergone a change of heart. He is believed by the Armenians that notes are passing between the murderer and the priest, and that these notes are being carried by the guards or by "trustees," who have the run of the cell there.

Jelalian's arrest is expected, will be followed by several more in this city and Boston. Detectives have the suspects under surveillance.

CROWD CHEERED AS WOMEN WERE RESCUED.
Men Remained on Sinking Yacht Until All the Women Were Safe.

A wreck crew began to-day to raise the schooner yacht Idelwild, belonging to Edwin H. Bunner, of Y. A. C., which sprung a leak and sank in four fathoms off Norton's Point last evening, while a crowd on shore watched the rescue by the ocean tug Islander of the passengers, among whom were several women, and the crew.

12,000 Women Helping Mrs. Blatch in Her Fight to Defeat the "Escort Rule" in Restaurants

They Insist on Their Right to Be Served With Food Without Question When Unaccompanied by a Man.

REGULATION IS A VULGAR ONE.

The Customer's Behavior the Only Thing to Be Taken Into Account—Will Fight to Highest Court.

TWELVE thousand women of one organization have joined in the fight of Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch to bring to their knees the restaurants of this city which exclude from their tables women unaccompanied by men.

Besides this great reinforcement, Mrs. Blatch is receiving letters by the score every day from individuals who offer sympathy and more tangible support.

The battle is on in earnest. There must be no discrimination against women, say these determined warriors. The test case begun by Mrs. Blatch against the Hoffman House, where she and Mrs. Graham, of Flushing, were not permitted to satisfy their hunger because they were not in tow of a man, will be fought through all the courts, if that is necessary to gain their point.

The militant twelve thousand are members of the Women's Self-Supporting League. Mrs. Blatch is their president. Many of the members are prominent in professional life, where they stand on an equal footing with the other sex. All of them are firm believers in absolute equality of man and woman. If the suit in the lower courts goes against Mrs. Blatch, they will take an appeal.

Calls It a Vulgar Rule.
Any one of the big army is ready at all times to present arguments to the courts. Mrs. Blatch is not a woman who is unanswerable against the man-made rules which compel, in many restaurants, a lone woman to leave her tables unfed. Mrs. Blatch calls the exclusion act "a vulgar rule, made by men of vulgar minds." She expects to prove furthermore that it is an illegal act.

"They tell me," said this aggressive suffragette, "that they wish to keep out objectionable women."

"But they do not keep them out at all. They say I should be kept out sitting at a table while a woman of the underworld sat near and made an appointment with a man."

Makes Women Reckless.
Other members of the league urge the same point and go further, insisting that the "barbaric rule" is an incentive to young women to become reckless in making acquaintances. Knowing that they must be in the company of a man in order to be served, they will accept advances they would otherwise scorn.

KISSAK JELALIAN
LATEST PRISONER
IN ARMENIAN CASE.

So hastily did the water rush into her that Capt. M. S. Hewitt gave the distress signal soon after the leak began. The yacht was 30 feet off shore, and the crew were transferred to the tug first, while the men patiently waited their turn.

Commander Charles H. H. of the Gravesend Division of U. S. Life-Saving Corps, saw the distress signal and hurried in a motor boat, but the tug was there ahead.

Too Young for Court?
Too Old for the Gerrys?

Police Have Hard Time Disposing of Sixteen-and-a-Half-Year-Old Boy Arrested on a Car.

Benjamin Adler, a newsboy, sixteen and a half years old, of No. 132 Orchard street, was arrested last evening for creating a disturbance on an elevated train. Policeman Donnelly took his small prisoner to the East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth Street Station.

"Take him to the Night Court," said Lieut. Thompson, after taking the lad's pedigree.

When Magistrate Kernochan saw the size of the prisoner he said:

"Take him to the Children's Society; he is too young for this court."

At the Children's Society the first question asked was:

"How old is he?"

"When the question was answered the man in charge said that the boy was half a year too old. Policeman Donnelly took the boy to the East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth Street Station again."

"If he is too old for the Children's Society," said Lieut. Donnelly, against said Lieut. Donnelly,

Mrs. Blatch's Arguments For Restaurant Equality

It is a woman's behavior alone that should be considered when, without an escort, she enters a restaurant to eat.

The rule barring women unaccompanied by men from public eating houses is a vulgar rule made by men of vulgar minds.

The dividing line between places where the "exclusion act" is in force and where it is not is exceedingly crooked—MRS. HARRIET STANTON BLATCH.

Miss Jean Leckie, Who Is to Wed Conan Doyle.

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, author of the famous "Sherlock Holmes" series of stories, is to marry next month. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leckie, Blackheath.

SALOON BRAWL OVER CARD GAME ENDS FATALLY

Young Man Is Found Dead with Fractured Skull After Fight.

William McMahon, more than six feet two in his stockings and tipping the scales at 150 pounds, was arraigned in the Harlem Police Court today, charged with causing the death of Joseph McGuinness, a young chap with whom he was playing cards in Kelly's saloon, No. 24 West One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street, on Saturday night.

The fact that McMahon's body was only found last night, when a visitor came upon it in the home of George McGuinness, at One Hundred and Seventy-third street and Westchester avenue, long after the man was dead, led to the theory that young McGuinness had been murdered.

McMahon seemed to have nothing to conceal when he appeared before Magistrate Wahl. He admitted having a fight with McGuinness and two other men. According to the prisoner, the three leaped upon him in Kelly's place and in every direction and his hand first landed squarely on McGuinness' jaw. McGuinness went down, and then his two friends fell over from what McMahon would call "mere spasms."

The fight over. McGuinness' two friends took him to the home of George McGuinness. The last man has been spending the summer in Auburn Park with his family and left Joseph to take care of his home.

Joseph McGuinness' two friends didn't think him much hurt when they got him home, and they stripped him of his clothing, with the exception of his trousers, and tossed him over on the bed to sleep. Joseph McGuinness, a neighbor—no relation—of the victim, came to the sound of the names—went to George McGuinness' home last evening to inquire into the matter. He found McGuinness' body, and the police found a fractured skull.

For a time the police believed that McMahon had been killed by robbers, who had taken flight when they killed their man without looting the house. Then they learned of the fight over the card game and McMahon's arrest followed.

Griffin, seventy-one, who lives at No. 2221 Third avenue, happened along when McMahon was whipping the three men, and the police took him in, holding him as a witness.

HALT YELLOW FEVER SPREAD IN CUBA.

Patients All Members of Cientefuegos Hospital Corps, and Garrison Not Affected.

HAVANA, Aug. 12.—Major J. R. Kean, Supervisor of the Department of Sanitation here, has received a report from the Cuban army, Province of Santa Clara, saying that no additional cases of yellow fever are being treated at the military hospital. All the patients are members of the hospital corps. With the exception of one bandman no case of yellow fever has occurred among the troops forming the garrison which is quartered at a distance from the hospital.

The infection is believed to have originated in the city of Cienfuegos, where the epidemic disease, owing to the inadequate water supply and the inefficient sanitation.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—An official report of the existence of yellow fever among the Cuban army, Province of Santa Clara, says that no additional cases of yellow fever are being treated at the military hospital. All the patients are members of the hospital corps. With the exception of one bandman no case of yellow fever has occurred among the troops forming the garrison which is quartered at a distance from the hospital.

Dr. Agrasano is a Cuban surgeon in command at Cienfuegos. Focus of infection unknown. Arguments there now added, as they rose from a chair. "I can still dance the kotzotsky."

The kotzotsky is a Russian dance resembling the tango, and the old lady went through the manoeuvres with great agility and was heartily applauded when she finished.

Mrs. Davis has no kin or kin in the world, her husband and seven children all being dead. She sold candles for a living on the east side until about two years ago, when she met with an accident, and she has been ever since.

Mrs. Davis has no kin or kin in the world, her husband and seven children all being dead. She sold candles for a living on the east side until about two years ago, when she met with an accident, and she has been ever since.

Mrs. Davis has no kin or kin in the world, her husband and seven children all being dead. She sold candles for a living on the east side until about two years ago, when she met with an accident, and she has been ever since.

Mrs. Davis has no kin or kin in the world, her husband and seven children all being dead. She sold candles for a living on the east side until about two years ago, when she met with an accident, and she has been ever since.

Mrs. Davis has no kin or kin in the world, her husband and seven children all being dead. She sold candles for a living on the east side until about two years ago, when she met with an accident, and she has been ever since.

Mrs. Davis has no kin or kin in the world, her husband and seven children all being dead. She sold candles for a living on the east side until about two years ago, when she met with an accident, and she has been ever since.

Mrs. Davis has no kin or kin in the world, her husband and seven children all being dead. She sold candles for a living on the east side until about two years ago, when she met with an accident, and she has been ever since.

Mrs. Davis has no kin or kin in the world, her husband and seven children all being dead. She sold candles for a living on the east side until about two years ago, when she met with an accident, and she has been ever since.

Mrs. Davis has no kin or kin in the world, her husband and seven children all being dead. She sold candles for a living on the east side until about two years ago, when she met with an accident, and she has been ever since.

HOLY JUMPERS COMING TO JUMP IN BROADWAY

Leader of Dancing Dervish Religious Sect to Invade Manhattan Territory.

Across North River from New Jersey the Holy Jumpers will soon jump, and then had old Broadway will have a chance to see how dancing, skipping and fantastic steps can arouse religious zeal.

For the Holy Jumpers are going right into the heart of Broadway. The Rev. C. W. Birrell, who presides over the Pentecostal society at West 101st street, N. Y. C., said:

"We will invade New York just as we did Denver. We have already sent an advance guard as far as Jersey City. This detachment consists of a number of our young women missionaries who distribute our truths and literature to acquaint the people with our true aims and motives."

"They will cross over to New York presently and when we get sufficient number of our members in the East to make an impression on the great city we will enter it and begin active work, but I do not anticipate this will be at an early day."

"Yes, we dance and make a big demonstration in the streets," said the leader, in answer to a question as to the method in which his followers appealed to sinners. "I am aware that we are classed as fanatics and derisively called 'The Holy Jumpers,' but we do not care what people may or think about us and keep straight on our way."

"About the only thing we are inclined to resent from anybody is a charge of immorality or dishonesty. These are sins which we do not commit. Our religious dance is neither that of whirling dervish nor a society two-step, but it is the exultant hop of one inspired with due religious fervor."

"Every person who joins the society must take a solemn oath to abstain from all evil, to keep the commandments of the Salvation Army type, were seated about the porticoes and in the well-furnished parlor reading their Bibles while several narrow-browed young men loitered in tents on the lawn. They were the efforts of Mrs. Abraham J. Dworkin, President of the Daughters of Jacob, who was placed in the home, where she has been ever since."

SAY PARTNER OF SLAIN ARCHITECT WILL WED WIDOW

Report That Charles Follen McKim and Mrs. Stanford White Are Engaged.

BOTH ARE TRAVELLING.

Marriage, Rumor Has It, Will Occur When Prisoner's Fate Is Settled.

Mrs. Stanford White and her late husband's partner, Charles Follen McKim, are reported to be engaged to marry, and the wedding will take place, according to persistent rumor, as soon as the fate of Harry K. Thaw, arrested for the murder of the architect, is settled.

Mrs. White is now travelling in the south of France, and Mr. McKim is in Scotland. They will return about the end of this month.

While admitting that they have heard the report, relatives of Mrs. White declare they do not know whether it is true. Mrs. Wetherall, her sister, whose place adorns the country home of the widow at St. James, L. I., said to-day that the story had reached her on several occasions, but that she had no word directly from her sister.

"I should be the first to know of her decision one way or another," she said. Asked if her words meant that Mr. McKim had proposed to Mrs. White and that an answer had not been given him, Mrs. Wetherall said:

"You know how kind friends always pick out a husband for a widow. Really I do not know whether she is going to marry Mr. McKim or not."

After the death of Mr. White last year Mr. McKim, who is the head of the firm of McKim, Mead & White, architects, showed in numerous ways his deep sympathy for the widow. He was her business counselor and personal adviser in all things. When the White art treasures were to be sold Mr. McKim and Mrs. White selected those pieces to be put under the hammer and those to be retained. It was intimated then that the two selected many objects which were to be the nucleus of another collection.

Mr. McKim frequently visited Mrs. White at St. James, and later, when she went to Cambridge to be near Lawrence White, her son, who is in Harvard, the architect visited her there.

Mr. McKim is sixty years old, and Mrs. White is about forty-five. She was Miss Elizabeth Smith, of Smithtown, L. I., before her marriage, and her family is an old one.

Mr. McKim is famous as an architect. He built the handsome University Club, a pure example of Italian architecture in this city, and in Boston his Public Library building is considered a model. His style is much less showy than was that of Mr. White. He is the designer of the new Pennsylvania Railroad station, which will be the greatest railroad terminal in the world.

ROBBED HER HUSBY TO GET POKER CASH

He, to Get Even, Grabbed a Jackpot, and Police Quelled Row.

Charles Slade is a butcher and boasts with his pretty wife, Nell, 31 West Twentieth street. He had an excellent dinner yesterday, and felt so much at peace with the world that he lay down to sleep. Some of the other boarders proposed a poker game. Mrs. Slade had no change, but knew where she could get some. She slipped upstairs, where her husband was peacefully doing, and rifled his pockets. Then she took a hand in the game.

Slade awoke after awhile and found what had happened. He remembered too that it had been done before, and made up his mind he would stop it. He went to the dining-room, where the game was on, and stood back of his wife's chair.

There was a large jackpot on the table which Slade seized in triumph. His wife hit him over the head with a frying pan. Anthony Bratcock hit him in the eye and blackened it. His wife whipped out a handful of his hair, and everybody in the game had a punch at him.

A policeman stopped the fight and arrested Bratcock at Slade's request. He was fined $5 in the Night Court. Slade kept the jackpot.

U. S. ATTORNEY-GENERALS TO CONFER AT ST. LOUIS.

No, not a bunch of the "Black-Hand" clan bent on a rampage of crime; But Attorney-Generals evolving a plan to bring the trusts to line.

GRANDMOTHER HAS NO NEWS OF ELOPING HEIRESS

Denies She Has Heard that Cooke Deserted Floretta Whaley in Canada.

VERY ILL, SAID REPORT.

It Was Reported that Unfrocked Clergyman Had Left Girl in Sanitarium.

The report current to-day that Floretta Whaley, the seventeen-year-old heiress who eloped with Jere Knobe Cooke, formerly rector of St. George's Episcopal Church at Hempstead, had been abandoned by Cooke in a Canadian sanitarium could not be substantiated.

It was said that Mrs. Whaley, grandmother of the girl, had been notified of her whereabouts, and that she was a pitiable plight, as the unfrocked clergyman had abandoned her without a cent. Mrs. Whaley, it was said, was sending funds to the girl. The grandmother denied to-day that she had received any inkling of the girl's whereabouts. She had been informed by a young woman, who was told by her father, who was told by some one else, that Floretta Whaley was a patient in a Canadian hospital.

Tracing the Rumor.

The report was finally traced back to Justice of the Peace Charles F. Gittings, of Hempstead, who issued a warrant for Cooke's arrest when it was thought the couple had been located in Peekskill.

Justice Gittings, when asked where he got the report from, said that he really did not recall. The warrant for Cooke's arrest is still pending, waiting to be served.

When Cooke disappeared from Hempstead on April 22 and it became known that he had taken the child-heiress from her home, leaving his pupil for any one who cared to take up the duties, and his own wife as a dependent, the people of his church did not believe what they heard until a few days later, when Bishop Burgess, of the diocese of Long Island, received a letter in which Cooke requested that he be permitted to resign his charge of St. George's Church. Following the receipt of this letter, there was a meeting of the wardens, and August Belmont announced that Cooke was no longer a clergyman.

Girl's Placid Letter.
Then, too, there came a letter from the child dupe to her aged grandmother, telling her how she "loved Jere," how she was going away, never to return home. The letter was the more pitiful because of its childlike tone.

Cooke had been made her guardian at the death of her father, and she had accepted the charge and promised to carry out every request, and these promises had been sealed in prayer. Mr. Whitney did believe that his girls had been left in the best of hands.

Miss Whaley was one of the most active workers in St. George's church, and she had accepted the charge and promised to carry out every request, and these promises had been sealed in prayer. Mr. Whitney did believe that his girls had been left in the best of hands.

TRUTH WILL PREVAIL.
(From To-Day's Evening Mail.)
Our private lunatic asylum is becoming so overcrowded, we will soon have to put up a tent in the editorial rooms to make room for the new arrivals.

NEW USE FOR BUTTER. Prevents Boiling Over.

Coffee frequently produces biliousness and all of the accompanying distress, such as flatulence, indigestion, bowels troubles, etc. A lady from Ill., says: "I had used coffee for many years, and though I took great care in making it, felt its effects very seriously. It made me bilious and robbed me of my appetite for breakfast."

"I always had trouble with dyspepsia while I used it. I was told by physicians that I had catarrh of the stomach, and came to believe there was no help for me. Two years ago I quit the use of coffee and began to use Postum Food Coffee. At first I missed the stimulant, although the taste of the food coffee was delicious."

"In a few days I forgot all about my coffee, in the satisfaction I derived from Postum, and soon found that my appetite returned, the bilious condition and dyspepsia disappeared, so that now I am perfectly satisfied that it does me good. I enjoy my food as well as when young and all my dyspeptic symptoms and stomach trouble have gone. These troubles had been with me for most of my life and it is really remarkable that I am now so perfectly well. For according to a dietitian I do not express it. Once in a while I find a person who does not like Postum, but I always find it is because it has not been properly prepared. There is but one way to make good Postum, and that is to make it exactly according to the directions allowing it to boil half fifteen minutes, not after it is placed on the stove, but after the real boiling begins. Use a small piece of butter, about the size of a pea, to prevent boiling over." Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

SCOUT FOUL PLAY THEORY IN CASE OF MISSING GIRL

Friends of Alice Bennett of the Opinion She Has Committed Suicide.

Discoveries made to-day by friends of Miss Alice M. Bennett, the New York University student, who has been missing from her home since last Monday, have led to the theory that she did not meet with harm while pursuing her sociological studies, but that she absented herself voluntarily or has committed suicide because she was out of money.

When Miss Bennett came to New York from her home at Springfield, Mo., two years ago she brought with her a legacy of several hundred dollars. This money had been left her by a relative. The money she deposited, together with instalments of the Helen Gould scholarship, which she won while a student at the Drury College, Missouri in the Greenwich Savings Bank.

On July 1, according to Dr. John R. Goble, Justice of the Peace at East 101st street, with whom the girl boarded, the girl showed him her bank book and then she had a deposit of $300. A short time before her disappearance she came to him, he says, and asked him how to draw a large amount of money from the bank.

When Miss Bennett was reported missing it was said that she wore a handsome diamond ring on the day of her disappearance. This ring, however, has been found in her writing desk.

FUGITIVE ACCUSED OF EMBEZZLING FUNDS.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Aug. 12.—It was stated to-day that the investigation into the affairs of Frank A. Warren, the special agent of the New England Mutual Insurance Company, who disappeared last Thursday, reveals a shortage of $3,000 in his accounts, warrant charging him with the embezzlement of that amount has been issued.

The probe into the affairs of Warren is being continued.

A depressed or flat nose is built up by the Famous Woodbury Method in a few minutes without cutting and without pain.

This is no miracle, but a treatment based upon the most scientific principles and perfected by years of thoughtful study. The knowledge and skill made possible by 37 years' successful experience is offered you only at the offices of the Woodbury Institute. It is not safe to trust the care of your face to new and inexperienced practitioners, as no part of the body is so delicate and easily marred.

We Correct Unpleasant Nose, Drooping Eyelids, Hollow Cheeks, Wrinkled Skin, Hair Troubles.

We Remove Lines and Wrinkles, Frowns and Furrows, Smallpox Pitting, Sunken Cheeks, Pimples and Blackheads, All Eye Blemishes, Balding Hair.

Write to-day for information on any subject and our reply will be mailed in plain sealed envelope. Better still, call and ask questions. Information in person or by letter is freely given and strict professional confidence is assured.

THE JOHN H. WOODBURY INSTITUTE
Office Hours from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.
Dept. 22 West 23d St., New York.

Quick Repairing

Any glass matched EXACTLY without the prescription. Factory on premises insures quick, accurate service and lowest possible cost.

J. Ehrlich & Sons
ESTABLISHED 1850
223 Sixth Ave., Below 15th St.
25 Sixth Ave., Below 23d St.
1274 Broadway, Below 34th St.
217 W. 4th Ave., Astor House Block.
New Store, 101 Nassau St., near Ann St.

Opportunities THAT COME EVERY WEEK.

1,132 Business Opportunities & For Sale Advertisements printed in The World last week.

320 More than the Herald, Press, Tribune, Times and Sun combined.